

When the Mississippi broke the levee and threatened New Orleans. A view of part of the town of Poydras, eleven miles from New Orleans, three hours after the river broke through.
P. & A.

The Prince of Wales arrives in Japan. The presentation at the pier of the members of the British Embassy and Consulate staffs immediately after the arrival of the Prince at Yokohama. At the right are Prince Higashi Fushimi, personal representative of the Regent, and, with his hat off, Mr. S. Yamada, dean of the School of Law. The Prince is shaking hands with a military attache of the embassy.
Central News.

Above— The King and his son-in-law caught unaware. An interesting snapshot taken in Windsor Park while the King, Lord Lascelles, Princess Mary and their equerry were enjoying a morning drive. It seems that Princess Mary is not in on the joke.
Wide World.

Above— Flowers that bloom in the spring. Matrons, debs and subdebs on a balcony at Hot Springs, Va. Left to right they are Mrs. Barnes Newberry, Miss Clare Reynders, Mrs. G. W. Hall Smith, Miss Charlotte K. Demorest, Mrs. Marcha Payne, Miss Mary O. Field, Miss Marjorey Lake and Miss Virginia Sterry.

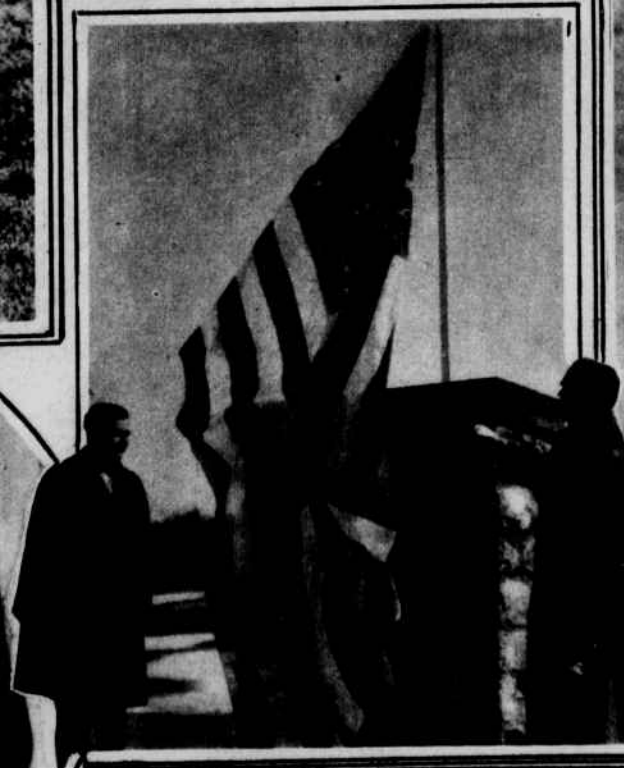

A nasty fall. Mr. C. F. Collings being thrown from Bess in the Hussars Subaltern's Point to Point Race at Ashbridge Farm, England. Mr. Collins, however, was uninjured.

Robert H. Robinson, Grand Master of Masons in New York, chairman of the Masonic Exposition Committee, which is arranging a bazaar for the benefit which will open May 8.

The Prince on his way to see the Mikado. It seems that he is enjoying his visit. International.

Albert S. Callan, First Vice-Commander of the American Legion, and Col. Kerwin Smith, Ninety-eighth Reserve Division, unveiling the tablet dedicated to soldiers of New York who died in the war.

Mr. Allison B. Houghton, the new American Ambassador to Germany, with his staff immediately after his arrival in Berlin April 20. The group stands in front of the American Embassy building. Left to right. Capt. Lansowne, Major Geiger, Mr. Stewart Johnson, First Secretary; Commander Beeler, the Ambassador, Mr. Richard E. Pennoyer, Secretary; Col. Cox Major Foulois and Mr. Ward N. Wilson, Secretary.